

ABOUT THE PLACE

Lancaster

is about 80 miles East from Philadelphia and 120 miles North from Washington, D.C. The town is the largest National Historic Register District in the country.

Lancaster county, the heart of Pennsylvania Dutch Country, is home to a peaceful countryside with a lot of Amish farmlands and settlements, and a friendly, welcoming atmosphere.

The closest international airports are Harrisburg, Philadelphia and Washington-Baltimore.

Lancaster Bible College

located at 901, Eden Road in Lancaster, PA has a campus of about 100 acres, a faculty of 90 and about 2000 students from over 20 countries. It aims at educating Christian men and woman to live according to a biblical world view and to serve through professional Christian ministries. (More information: www.lbc.edu)

WHY SHOULD YOU BE THERE ?
